

Why I use The Puppy Contract

The purpose of The Puppy Contract is to give you all the information you need when buying your puppy to help you ensure they have had the best start in life. It also shows the care and attention we have put in to breeding your puppy. It is a legally binding contract signed by us, the breeder, and you, the buyer, that contains details about:

Your puppy's Mum
Your puppy's Dad
Your puppy

The Puppy Contract can be used for all types of dog - pedigree, crossbreed or mixed breed - and by anyone selling a puppy. The contents of the contract are written to give you a full understanding of your puppy's life so far when you buy her/him e.g. the health of the parents and what vaccinations the puppy or their parents have had. As it is a legally binding document, all the information contained must be accurate.

It is important that you understand the information you are given and feel confident to ask us questions about your puppy before you buy him/her. The more knowledge you have about the puppy you are buying, the better, as this will help you buy a healthy, happy puppy and give them the best start in life by meeting all of their needs from day one.

When you sign the contract you are committing to meeting the needs of your new pet throughout its lifetime. We will be happy to provide you with any information you need about your new puppy's needs.

Useful information and guidance on how to use and understand The Puppy Contract can be found online at: www.puppycontract.org.uk.

There you will also find:

10 steps to buying a puppy
How to spot a puppy dealer
What are the laws for puppy breeding?
Links to useful information